POLICE SIGNAL SYSTEM
IN ORDER AGAIN.
Boxes and Telephones Came Back Into Use on Sunday, After Repairs.

Repairs to the police signal system have now been completed and on Sunday new keys for the four main telephones were issued to the men on duty. John Carney, who has been in charge of the repair work, completed it Sunday, and the system was at once put into operation.

When tested the telephones showed remarkable efficiency. It was stated that the slightest whisper could be heard on them. The large group of lights which are used in the signal system are well adapted to be seen at a long distance, and the improvements have put the police signal system in better condition than it ever was.

As previously stated, the four telephone boxes are at Franklin square, at the Greenville station, at the West Side and at the corner of Washington and Thames streets.

REELION IN LABR PROBLEM

Reform in Individual is First Step—Square Deal For Both Church and Labor is Needed Says Charles Stetzel of New York—Spoke at Theater at Y. M. C. A. Mass Meeting For Men.

Charles Stetzel of the Labor Temple, New York city, gave an interesting and interesting address on "Labor's Problem" under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. before an audience that filled the auditorium of the Davis theater to almost its capacity Sunday afternoon.

Previous to the address, a program was well rendered by Tubor Military band under the direction of Frank E. King.

American Workmen the Finest.

Leonard O. Smith presided at the meeting and the Scripture was read by Rev. E. S. Worcester. Rev. C. A. Northrup and James L. Case were also seated on the platform. Several hymns were sung by the congregation.

Mr. Smith introduced Mr. Stetzel, who, in opening his remarks, said that the American workman was the finest workman in the world; the most highly skilled, receiving the highest wages in the world; but in comparison to what he produces the poorest paid. In America, he said, it is not the workman who is the problem, but the world at that; but a question of distribution, of giving the workman, and every man, a square deal.

Should Know Labor Questions Better.

The average workman is too close to his job, too much occupied with his work, to understand labor questions thoroughly, but this is even more true of the great employers of labor, who are interested solely in the production of profit. He is a greater outsider. There are thousands of employees who believe that we need but to destroy the labor union, and the problem is solved. They are looking forward to nothing but the destruction of organized labor, which is the only way to solve the problem. The socialist vote this year of nearly a million, twice that of four years ago, the ten million trade unionists, the ten million farmers, the ten million people of England, France, Italy and this country go to show that it is not the labor union that is the problem, but the world at that; but a question of distribution, of giving the workman, and every man, a square deal.

Not to Be Judged by Race.

We should not judge the labor unionists by the McNamara, the McManis, the history of the church holds many such as those in the history of the labor union. Both the church and the trade union have done much to merit the respect of the world. The church has a deep moral or ethical value which it is seldom credited. It is trying for the square deal for the whole children. The trade union is making a big fight for the protection of little children and women in industry than any other organization.
